Group & Attendee Description

The Minerals, Metals & Materials Society (TMS) is a professional society that connects minerals, metals, and materials scientists and engineers who work in industry, academia, and government positions around the world. The Society creates networking, publication, and professional development opportunities by convening international conferences, publishing books and journals, administering awards, conducting short courses, and training, and bringing together the professional community to address issues of common concern. They also provide leadership in the accreditation of university programs in metallurgical, materials, and similarly named engineering programs. TMS2023 is the latest in a series of annual conferences held by The Minerals, Metals & Materials Society and typically attracts more than 4,000 minerals, metals, and materials scientists from throughout the world.

TMS was in San Diego in 2020, here in 2023 and will return again in 2026.
