Saturday, April 5th – Wednesday, April 9th, 2025
Anticipated Attendance: 12,000

Group Description

The American Academy of Neurology (AAN) is a professional organization representing neurologists and neuroscience professionals worldwide. The AAN Institute is a subsidiary of the American Academy of Neurology that focuses on advancing the field of neurology through research, education, and patient care initiatives. Established to complement AAN's mission, the AAN Institute supports neurological research, provides educational resources and training programs for neurologists and other healthcare professionals, and advocates for policies that promote neurological health and access to quality care. Through its activities, the AAN Institute aims to improve the understanding, diagnosis, and treatment of neurological disorders, ultimately enhancing patient outcomes and quality of life.

Attendee Profile

The AAN Annual Meeting is a premier event expected to attract approximately 12,000 attendees, including neurologists, neuroscience professionals, and industry representatives from around the world. Participants will have access to over 160 educational programs offering Continuing Medical Education (CME) credits, as well as opportunities to engage with up to 2,400 scientific abstracts presented in various formats.
